

Alex Beauchamp is the Central Region Director at Food & Water Watch. In this role, Alex plans and coordinates organizing campaigns with organizers across the Midwest focusing on the farm bill, the campaign to ban fracking, and various campaigns opposing the privatization of water. For the last two years, he has focused extensively on working with coalition partners and volunteers to push for a more sustainable farm policy in Ohio and to convince Senator Brown to stand up for good food programs at the federal level.

Before coming to Food & Water Watch, Alex worked for two and a half years on electoral and environmental campaigns in Colorado. He is a graduate of Carleton College in Minnesota.
